KITCHENS

1. LARDERS WITH LIVING ROOM LOOKS

This bespoke Pickling Cabinet is an exquisite example of larders that are taking design cues from living room furniture. It is crafted from American walnut, patinated brass and marble, with slatted sliding screens offering glimpses of lighted internal spaces. Kitchen, from £65,000, Lanserring.

2. WELL ROUNDED

Use the end of an island for storage that's easily accessible from the dining area. 'This design brings a playful edge to entertaining, as the curved, fluted doors open to reveal a cocktail cabinet,' says designer Andrew Griffiths. Bespoke kitchen, around £50,000, Hølte. Project, A New Day Studio.

3. OPEN DOOR POLICY

'Bifold doors are a must for large storage requiring frequent access,' says Annie Tullett, designer, Tom Howley. 'They're particularly effective on breakfast cupboards, allowing everyone help themselves and keeping small appliances tucked inside.' Devine kitchen, from £25,000, Tom Howley.

4. WORKING THE WALLS

Raise your wall storage game with a mix-and-match approach. 'The trick is to make sure every element connects visually,' says Felix Milns, founder, Hux. 'Framing the overall piece gives it a showstopping moment and makes it feel unique.' Bespoke kitchen in walnut, from £50,000, Hux.
